[.]warmer and drier, the roads more white, more deep in dust; insect life, myriad legged and winged, had been everywhere; under the stones lurked the scorpions. In former summers here this never-ending light, the long days of burning sunshine, the nights with the persistent moon, the importunate nightingales, and the magnificent procession of the stars had sometimes driven the New England woman almost mad; she had felt as if she must bury her head in the earth somewhere to find the blessed darkness again, to feel its cool pressure against her tired eyes. But this year these things had not troubled her; the possibility of realizing her long-cherished hope at last had made the time seem short, had made the heat nothing, the light forgotten; each day, after fifteen hours of toil, she had been sorry that she could not accomplish more. But she had accomplished much; the hope was now almost a reality. Nounce, she said, do you know I m most too happy to live. I shall have to tell you: I ve got all the money saved up at last, and the men are coming to-morrow to take away the cow-shed. Think of that! Nounce thought of it; she nodded appreciatively.[.].
